Re: 2021 Second (Fall) Semester Classes

Classes for the second (fall) semester of the 2021 academic year will, in principle, be held as high-flex classes (simultaneous classroom/online delivery of lectures).

However, this does not apply to classes involving experiments, practical training, small tests and other participatory activities that require student physical presence.

Be sure to access the relevant syllabus and Moodle to check the format for each course you will be taking.

In addition, before attending classes, be sure to carefully read the Kyoto Institute of Technology Manual on Limiting Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) Transmission and notes from the instructor in charge of each of your courses.
